

We are a small but growing technology company, utilizing VoIP and wifi (802.11) services. We feel that the proposed regulations would be an unnecessary burden to business such as ourselves in increased hardware, maintenance and administration costs. As the demand for E911 services on VoIP and wireless connections increases, we feel that the free market will adequately address these demands.